

General Information

Membership is open to professionals and individuals interested in the field of contingency planning, business continuity, emergency management, and other similar disciplines. ♦ To further enhance the industry, all members adhere to the BCPC Code of Ethics.

There is NO cost to join our chapter.

If you are considering BCPC membership, there is no better investment or greater return. ♦ The BCPC would like very much for you to become a member. ♦ Joining is easy. ♦ Simply follow the membership instructions listed in the following section.

Benefits of Joining BCPC

- Regular chapter meetings with professional presentations by members and experts on subjects selected by members
- Personal networking with other local BCPC members
- Knowledge you can use to protect your family in the event of disaster
- Continuing Education Units (CEUs) granted through attendance at BCPC chapter meetings, training seminars and conferences
- BCPC resources to help identify and transfer technologies useful in contingency planning
- Possible discounts on annual BCPC International Symposiums
- Recognition as a member of a professional organization

Request Membership

You may click the "Contact Us" menu link to request membership in BCPC. ♦ Your request will be received by the board of directors and your contact information added to the membership list. ♦ As a virtual organization, all communications regarding chapter information are conducted through e-mail, so be sure to provide a valid e-mail address. ♦ Through e-mail you will receive conference announcements, chapter meeting announcements, and additional chapter information.